

The Birds

1963

Director Alfred Hitchcock

Writer Daphne Du Maurier, Evan Hunter

A wealthy San Francisco socialite pursues a potential boyfriend to a small Northern California town that slowly takes a turn for the bizarre when birds of all kinds suddenly begin to attack people there in increasing numbers and with increasing viciousness.

Melanie goes to a pet store to pick up some birds.

A bird hits Melanie's head.

Birds attack Mitch's family in the home.

Melanie and Mitch find Annie dead.

Mitch and the family leave.